The software allows you to maintain a list of hosts that you want to permanently keep, even if all programs related to file sharing are disabled or removed. It's a browser-based application, which makes it suitable for any device that can access the Internet. HostsEditor can also be used to manage static IP addresses. Additionally, it features strong encryption technology to safeguard stored information. The hosts editor may be used in conjunction with the file synchronizer, as well as the password manager. The main goal of the application is to offer you a solution that will allow you to easily and quickly access all your files online, which is particularly convenient with the Internet. The file synchronizer allows you to synchronize groups of files, in order to make backup copies, and then return them to their original place. The list of files may be stored in the program's own database or it may be hosted externally, with the option to select the location of the backup copy.
