The Order in Council can be extended by a second Order in Council.Meta Bonus Entry: So easy to identify solutions... Everyone is so busy with teaching, training and building skills, it is easy to get stuck in the round corners of topics rather than treating them as part of a broad context. The world is changing rapidly and education systems must move with it. With this in mind, thinking about the next content generation should be a call to action, a challenge to everyone to better understand this evolving context, and to make sure education systems are fit for purpose in it. We must think about: • how learning is changing – how and where people are learning, how quickly and whether that learning is needed and in what formats. • how learning is changing the business – by embedding lifelong learning into business practice, managing learning for business benefits. • how learning is changing personal development – how education can better cater for personal development needs and how
