Adobe Photoshop Elements Not to be confused with Photoshop CS, Elements is a division of Photoshop that targets beginners and home users. Photoshop Elements has all of the basic features of the full-featured program but has a smaller user interface. It doesn't have all of the advanced features of the full-featured program, so is designed to offer a beginner/home user a safe place to start. Although Photoshop Elements has a lot of functionality, it isn't an easy program to master. Elements is intended for beginners to get a first exposure to Photoshop, and it can be intimidating for someone who isn't familiar with the program. If you're looking for a more simple Photoshop alternative, Photoshop Elements could work for you. Additional resources: * Learn photoshop online: * Learn to PhotoShop:

Q: How can I set the paths in Android Studio for flutter app? I tried to run my app on my mobile phone (Android), and I got the error that you can see in the images below. I have a strange issue: If I open my app from Android Studio, everything is fine, but if I try to run my app from my mobile phone, the image gives this error: Here is the process that I've used: This is my pubspec.yaml file: name: splashscreen description: A simple splash screen for your Flutter application dependencies: flutter: sdk: flutter cupertino_icons: ^0.1.2 share: ^0.5.3 url_launcher: ^5.3.0 path: ^1.3.0 flutter_webview_plugin: ^0.6.2 flutter_webview_plugin_acknowledgement: ^0.4.0 dev_dependencies: flutter_test: sdk: flutter flutter: uses-material-design: true assets: - assets/images/enroll_bg.png A: The way you have declared the assets in pubspec.yaml is not valid. Change your assets declaration to the following: assets: - assets/images/enroll_bg.png This way you put all your assets inside the assets folder, in this folder you can put all kinds of files, also images. EDIT: This is not an error related to your Phone and your flutter app. Actually, you have a problem in your pubspec.yaml file. Instead of using assets: assets: - assets/images/enroll_bg.png use files: files: - assets/images/enroll_bg.png The file method uses the filesystem instead of files on the src folder, but it's mostly the same. Studies of PERK activation and regulation have emerged as a major new area of translational research. The objective of this R15 proposal is to establish the basis for a new area of investigation in the analysis of the dynamic translational control of ER stress - PERK - RACK1 signaling axis. Central to these studies is the hypothesis that this signaling pathway affects a wide array of protein synthetic processes by influencing translation efficiency. The proposed work will rely upon three approaches to develop the necessary tools for this new direction in translational research. First, we will develop and utilize a multi-photon fluorescence approach to follow the dynamics of PERK signaling and translation initiation in single cells. Experiments will determine whether this new tool will allow for the direct measurement of nascent protein synthesis in living cells and will permit the identification of different phases in protein synthesis and PERK signaling that are correlated with ER stress. Second, we will characterize PERK signaling complexes by examining which proteins interact with PERK and regulate the translational control activity of PERK. Third, we will investigate the mechanism by which PERK prevents translation initiation during ER stress by identifying the elements within the 5
